WRITING

Take a responsibility of your own life
 I want to tell you a short story about Alyssa. Alyssa was a sixteen-years-old girl that looked the same as other girls: shoulder-length blond hair pretty face with a wonderful smile big blue eyes. Alyssa was a brilliant candidate for catching a true love.

But she was so selfish that nobody wanted to deal with her, except of one boy - James. He tried to bring her attention but Alyssa said to James that she wasn't interested in him. So after those words James was very disappointed. After this unshared love James started to be concentrated on himself but Alyssa kept to be the same.

Twenty years had passed! James grew up in a wonderful man but Alyssa stayed the same! she even became worse so she lost any hope to be loved by others. So making a conclusion of this story I should say that everyone should take a responsibility of his/her own life.
